Long Political Dynasty Out In Louisiana

Jones Leads In A Bitter Primary By 20,000 Votes

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The Huey P. Long political dynasty, born of 12 years of dictatorial violence, died peacefully by ballot yesterday after one of the longest and bitterest election campaigns in Louisiana's history.

Voters in the Democratic gubernatorial runoff primary swept to defeat Governor Earl K. Long, the brother of the "kingfish" and titular leader of the machine, and nominated Attorney Sam Jones of Lake Charles to the office.

Jones, a newcomer to politics, pledged himself to restore democracy to Louisiana, regain much of the millions of dollars he said administration office holders stole from the state, and jail those found guilty of graft and corruption.

The machine rout appeared complete with Jones' slate of secondary state officers, engaged in the runoff, going in without a break, together with a new anti-machine legislature, and possibly an anti-machine state central committee.

Unofficial returns from 1,508 of the state's 1,703 precincts gave Jones 258,816 votes and Long 238,692, a lead of 20,124 votes for Jones.

Tantamount To Election
Nomination in overwhelmingly Democratic Louisiana is tantamount to election. Jones will take office May 14.

It was the first time since 1928, when Huey himself was elected governor, that the Long administration had been whipped.

The martial air, characteristic of the Long rule, prevailed yesterday as the governor kept the state's 3,500 national guardsmen poised for duty, aside from several fist fights, there were few disturbances.

Jones early today accepted the victory plaudits of his supporters with the advice that the "job is not yet done."

In a radio address he said: "Permit me to thank you for the magnificent support you have given me. Last minute returns with approximately 400,000 votes cast, indicate I've been elected governor."

Long said at the executive mansion in Baton Rouge he still believed complete returns would show him the victor. Mayor Robert S. Maestri, boss of New Orleans politics, who delivered a good majority for Long in that city, said he still felt Long would be nominated.

Nominated with Jones were his candidates for lieutenant-governor, attorney general and superior.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(P)—Senator White (R-Me) said today a senate subcommittee would hold hearings on protests against census questions on personal income.

Senator Tobey (R-NH) has termed the questions "unauthorized inquiries into the private affairs of citizens," but Secretary Hopkins replied that the law requires all census information to be kept confidential.

Capital First In Contest With Other Papers

Silver Plaque Is Presented Editor George H. Scruton

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—The Sedalia Daily Capital today was awarded a silver wall plaque in the Inland Daily Press Association's first general Typographic Excellence contest. Elmo Scott Watson, national president of Sigma Delta Chi, whose Northwestern University chapter provided the awards, made the presentation in ceremonies at the Sherman hotel here. George H. Scruton, editor of the Capital, accepted the award for the paper.

The Daily Capital won first place in Class A of the contest. Eighty-five newspapers were entered. Judges in the contest were Douglas McMurtrie, nationally-known typographic counselor; J. L. Frasier, editor of Inland Printer; and Dean Kenneth E. Olson, of the Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern University.

Scoring was on the basis of head dress, body dress, advertising typography, general make-up and press work.

Praise From Dean
In giving the report for the judges at the Inland luncheon of which the presentation of awards was a part, Dean Olson praised the prize-winning papers as examples of the new trend toward greater readability and more attractive appearance.

"Our newspapers are more than ever concerned with the reader," he said. "They are trying to give him a newspaper that is easy to read and as attractive as they can make it."

Winners in all classes are: Class A (under 5,000 circulation), First, Sedalia (Mo.) Daily Capital; second, Goshen (Ind.) News-Democrat; third, Harrisburg, (Ill.) Daily Register; honorable mention, Newton (Ia.) Daily News and Iowa City (Ia.) Daily Iowan.

Class B (from 5,000 to 10,000 circulation), First, Hastings (Neb.) Daily Tribune; second, Iron Mountain (Mich.) News; third, Idaho Falls (Idaho) Post-Register; honorable mention, Marquette (Mich.) Daily Mining Journal and Greeley (Colo.) Tribune.

Class C (10,000 to 25,000), First, Richmond, (Ind.) Palladium-Item; second, Kenosha (Wis.) Evening News; third, Aberdeen (S. D.) Evening News; honorable mention, Appleton (Wis.) Post-Crescent and Elgin (Ill.) Courier-News.

In the contest in which the Sedalia Capital carried off the honors three papers of different dates were submitted for inspection.

Harry B. Wilson was the news editor and Charles R. Behrens, foreman of the Capital composing rooms, was on the "make-up" of the pages, with Arthur Brill, Capital pressman, in charge of the press work.

Withdrawal By Printers From The Federation

Local Body Ready To Disobey An Order By Green

Braving expulsion from the American Federation of Labor, the Sedalia Federation Tuesday night moved to disobey an order of the AFL to unseat the Sedalia Typographical Union delegates, but before the motion was acted upon the Typographical Union offered a resolution withdrawing its membership.

A written order was sent out earlier this month by William Green, AFL president, demanding that all Central Labor Unions and state Federations of Labor expel local affiliates of the International Typographical Union because of the International's refusal to pay an assessment to the American Federation of Labor.

Signers Of Resolution
The resolution to withdraw from the Sedalia Federation of Labor was drawn up Monday by the executive board of the Typographical Union. It was signed by Charles R. Behrens, president; George Espelin, chairman, Melvin Ward, O. B. Poundstone and Claude Yankee, members.

At the meeting at the Labor hall the motion for non-compliance with the AFL order was made, and seconded, and then on the question, representatives of the Typographical Union asked to be heard. The resolution was presented by Emmet Sullivan, who is in the peculiar position of secretary of both the central labor union (the local federation), and the typographers.

With the acceptance of the resolution the Federation was released from jeopardizing its own position and from expelling an organization that has been an affiliate since the local federation was founded. The typographers have been a strong mainstay of the Sedalia Federation of Labor composed of 24 unions.

Sullivan Offers Resignation
Sullivan offered his resignation as secretary of the Sedalia Federation, but the body refused to release him. It was suggested that he become affiliated with another labor organization for which he is qualified and thus retain membership in the local federation and his office of secretary.

A. L. Gorsett is president of the Sedalia Federation of Labor. The local typographers still retain their membership in the International Typographical Union which now is affiliated with neither the American Federation of Labor nor with the C. I. O.

Will Continue Cooperation
Their resolution ended with: "Be it further resolved: That the Sedalia Typographical Union does hereby extend its continued cooperation to members of organized labor and may be called upon to render any assistance within its means."

The 59th annual convention of the A. F. L. held in Cincinnati in October, 1939, officially suspended the International Typographical Union from membership in the American Federation of Labor until such time as it paid assessment of one per cent per member per month, which has not yet been done.

James A. Reed Attacks New Deal

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21.—(P)—Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri told the old guard society of Palm Beach last night that he had rather "go to hell in a horse and buggy than to ride into heaven in a red wagon chauffeured by a red driver."

Nothing but the cupidity of American business men, he said, caused them to bow to the blue eagle. Democrats and Republicans knew better, he added, but the people did believe in the supreme court of the United States which unanimously did what "every American knew in his heart."

"You Democrats, you Republicans shortly will write party platforms," he said. "Mean what you say and rebel if it isn't done."

"You like to refer to Jefferson and Washington and Lincoln as emblematic of what this country should be. All right. Then do not let anybody at Washington tell you when to plant or reap."

Attempt Fails To Rob Bank

President Of Bank Of Speed Is Freed By His Abductors

BOONVILLE, Mo., Feb. 21.—(P)—State highway patrolmen and Cooper County officers were searching today for three men who attempted to rob the bank of Speed last night by forcing Dan E. McArthur, 74, bank president, to open the vault.

McArthur was taken from his home by one of three men on the pretext that he was to talk to friends at the bank concerning the financing of an automobile purchase.

At the bank, however, McArthur convinced the trio he was unable to operate the time lock on the safe. Blindfolded and without hat, coat or overalls, McArthur was thrown out of the would-be robbers' car in a snowstorm two miles from his home about 9:30 p. m.

McArthur, a semi-invalid, was found 30 minutes later by L. H. Childs. The banker then was a mile from his home. McArthur told officers one of the men searched his billfold but overlooked several dollars in currency.

Speed is a village 10 miles south of Boonville.

One Killed; 13 Injured In Blast

ELKTON, Md., Feb. 21.—(P)—One man was killed and at least 13 persons injured today when a powder magazine of Triumph Explosives, Inc., blew up, setting afire small buildings nearby.

The dead man was believed to be John Baker, 21, Elkton. His clothes were virtually torn off by the blast. All the injured were reported to have been working in the small building where the explosion occurred.

Little hope was held for the recovery of Charles Gatchell, 22, who was burned on the body.

Firemen brought the blaze under control. The cause was not learned immediately.

'Too Good To Live,' Mother Says Of Child She Killed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—(P)—"She was too good to live."

Thus, says Police Chief Harry Bispham, did an attractive 25-year-old mother explain the slaying of her golden-haired, five-year old daughter last Monday in a park in nearly Montebello.

Mrs. Betty Hardaker, sought since the body of her eldest child, Betty, was found with a crushed skull, was taken into custody at the desert resort of Palm Springs yesterday afternoon. Last night she was returned to jail here, to face questioning by psychiatrists and determination of formal charges.

"Why don't they electrocute me? Why do they have trials? I want to die," Mrs. Hardaker sobbed today in her jail cell.

Asked about report that she belonged to a cult which believed in "human sacrifices," she answered:

"I believe in God, but I don't belong to any one church. I did belong to the Presbyterian church. I tried to get my husband to go with me but he just laughed and told me I was crazy to go to church."

Abduction Of Two Officers

Were Supposedly Checking German Peace Overtures

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(P)—Two British Intelligence officers abducted by the German secret police in a mysterious incident on the Netherlands frontier Nov. 9 were disclosed today by Foreign Under-Secretary R. A. Butler to have been engaged in checking German peace overtures.

The two men, Captain Richard Henry Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best, were captured near Venlo, the Netherlands, during an encounter in which one of them was killed.

Butler declared in the House of Commons that there was no question of the men carrying peace proposals from His Majesty's government, but that they had been authorized to listen and report on an approach from the German side.

Evading answer to a question concerning the source of the German approach, Butler said "The approach interested them, and I can say no more as they were threatened in a disgraceful manner."

Stevens and Best still are in Berlin to the best of his knowledge, Butler said. Their abduction prevented check on the nature of the German sources involved.

Stevens was chief of the British Intelligence Service's European staff and Best had served as an intelligence officer during the World War. When they were abducted a Dutch intelligence officer, Lieutenant Volp, was killed and a Dutch chauffeur also abducted.

The incident occurred one day after the Munich beer hall bombing and some German newspapers said there was a direct connection between the two.

Heated Debate Waged On The Trade Treaty

Juggling Figures In Accusation By The Opponents

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(P)—House Democrats and Republicans accused each other today of juggling figures to prove their cases for and against extension of the administration's reciprocal trade agreements program.

Rep. Buck (D-Calif) started this line of argument when he charged Republicans and Democrats with employing "statistical legerdemain" in an effort to show the trade pacts had been injurious to American agriculture.

White-haired Rep. Reed (R-NY) retorted a few minutes later much of the exports increase which the Democrats "boasted" was due to the trade program actually consisted to war materials being shipped to Russia and Japan.

"While you are padding your export figures with this war traffic," the New Yorker shouted, "don't forget that the United States is going to be the most hated nation in the world—hated by those who have suffered from our war exports of death and destruction; despised as a shackle by those from whom you are extracting blood money to obtain war materials."

"Why then, in the name of heaven, don't you be honest about it and discard the pious peace argument of your trade agreements program, which you invented only as an afterthought, an excuse for your discredited and ruinous economic theory."

Turns To War Materials

Discussing exports of war materials, Reed declared:

"The press informs us that 500 planes at regular intervals roar over the peaceful villages of Finland, dropping crates of bombs to terrify, maim and kill defenseless women and children. These planes, hundreds of them driven by American engines, propelled by American gas and loaded with American munitions, represent a vast increase in our exports to Russia."

Asserting copper exports to Russia jumped from none in October 1939 to $4,376,000 in December of the same year, he continued:

"Surely, in view of the Russian-Finnish situation, you knew perfectly well the purpose for which this essential war material was to be used, and you know now the purpose for which it is being used. In point of time, you can't mistake its use, for it was at 8:30 a. m., on November 30 that the U. S. S. R. invaded Finland. These exports, to which you point with pride, were well timed."

Buck, beginning the last day's debate on legislation to continue the trade treaty system for three years from June 12, said Republicans had contended that 1932 and 1933 were good years for agriculture because farm products constituted about 50 per cent of all United States exports.

Rock In Snowball Injures Youth

Ralph Billings, 18 year old high school cheer leader, is a patient at the Bothwell hospital, and may lose the sight of his left eye, the result of injuries suffered Tuesday night when he was hit in the eye with a snowball, believed to have contained a rock.

Billings has suffered a slight concussion, and today has severe pains in his head. It is impossible to tell yet what the outcome of the injury will be.

Billings, a senior, was leaving the high school after a basketball game with a group of friends, and as they stepped outside the building several unknown persons started throwing snowballs at them. One of the snowballs hit him in the eye and he fell to the ground, dazed. He was later taken to the hospital.

A rock was found near where he fell, and it is believed it was in the snowball. Cecil Glenn, school trustee officer, is making an investigation today of the affair.

Billings, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Billings, 301 New York, works on the Walters Farm, on route 5, to help pay his way through school.

Boy Collapsing On Highway Is Brought Here

States He Was On A Hitch-Hike To Kansas City

A 20-year-old youth, who gave his name as Frank Spear, and his address as 1337 Wabash, Kansas City, collapsed on highway 50, about a mile west of Dresden about 11:15 o'clock last night, and was picked up by Highway Patrolmen Paul E. Corl and Lester Estes. It is the opinion of the patrolmen, after questioning the youth today, that he was weakened from hunger.

A motorist, with a Warrensburg license, waved the patrolmen down on the highway, and reported seeing a man they believed was dead on the slab. The patrolmen drove on to the place and found the boy, lying on the slab about two feet from the center. They worked with him, found he was breathing, and brought him to Sedalia where he was kept at the county jail for the night. A motorist who stopped at the scene with the officers offered the boy 50 cents, which he refused, saying he had money. To the officers later he admitted he had only a dime.

Today, when questioned by the patrolmen, he said his real name was Floyd Cantrell Pruett, but that his father is dead and his stepfather, who lives at Ajo, Ariz., is named Spear.

He was on his way home, he said, from New York, to which place he had hitch-hiked, to have an audition in Major Bowes studio. He was given the audition, he said, remained in New York just four hours, and started back to Kansas City and was on his way home when he collapsed.

The youth said he had been selected as one of the twenty-five best singers in high school, having a high tenor voice. When in New York he said he was told that he would receive a letter in about a week from the Major Bowes studio, and that he would be given a place on his program, possibly not for a month or six weeks as their programs are planned so far ahead.

After fingerprinting Spear and questioning him today the officers released him.

She had breakfast at Mrs. Handley's and at noon met members and a few guests, twenty eight in all at the home of Mrs. S. E. Bush, 2207 South Kentucky avenue.

A turkey dinner, with many delicious edibles, was served at noon, buffet style. The large table, from which the food was served, was covered with a lace cloth, and was very attractive with a silver service, pink taper candles in green holders and a bowl of sweet peas.

Guests were seated at small tables, which were covered with lunch cloths, in various colors and on which were smaller bouquets of flowers.

This evening Mrs. Turner will be a dinner guest of the local organization, of which Mrs. John Overmier is president, at Hotel Bothwell, and the remainder of the evening spent socially at the home of Mrs. Handley.

Mrs. Turner leaves Thursday morning for Parsons, Kas., where she will attend the fiftieth anniversary of division 30, on that day, and a school of instruction on the 23rd.

Ten Dead From Far Ranging Air Raids By Reds

By Thomas F. Hawkins
HELSINKI, Feb. 21.—(P)—Simultaneous Russian attacks on both ends of the Mannerheim line, throwing two Red army divisions against one sector alone, were repulsed in fighting that lasted far into the night, Finland reported today.

The Red army smashed at the western end of the isthmus defense line and at Taipale, the eastern sector where the two divisions launched their attack.

The twin offensives meant that the Russians were trying to break through across nearly the entire width of the isthmus and that the battle still was most critical for Finland.

Finnish hopes were raised by the onset of a swirling blizzard which was expected to balk the Russian drive and further strengthen the defense.

Official Russian claims that the coastal fortress of Koivisto, western anchor of the Mannerheim line, had been captured, were denied by the semiofficial Finnish news agency.

The Finnish command's communique reported 17 Russian planes shot down in yesterday's widespread aerial fighting.

Land Attacks Continue
Soviet land attacks, centered on Finland's Mannerheim line of defenses across the isthmus, continued as Russian warplanes returning for the second successive day caused two air raids in Helsinki. No bombings were reported.

An attack by two Russian divisions, "strongly supported by artillery and aircraft," was said to have been repelled at Taipale on the eastern sector of the isthmus front was continued hammering at the front's western end.

"Very many enemy tanks were destroyed," the Finns said, in the western sector near the Gulf of Finland, scene of some of the war's heaviest fighting which has brought the Russians within a few miles of Viipuri.

Enemy losses were described as heavy at Taipale where Finns said "the fighting raged fiercely until late at night."

Northeast of Lake Ladoga, 50 miles from the isthmus front, there was relative quiet on the sector where Finland two days ago repulsed a Russian drive.

Her owners announced one boatload of survivors, the captain and 12 seamen, was picked up by a British steamer after drifting 75 hours and the men were to reach London tonight.

The missing 26 were in two other boats. Earlier reports said one of the tanker's lifeboats had been found empty near Lizard Head, southwestern England. All of the crew were Hollanders.

The owners' announcement did not give the cause of the explosion.

Fishing In The Shadows

If anyone along the Atlantic seaboard notices sinister shadows moving out in the sea these days, don't shoot—that will probably be the President.

And if you should see power launches sneaking up to the President's boat and slinking figures in capes and broad-brimmed hats stealing stealthily over the sides, they will be representatives of foreign governments, coming to confer with the President on the European war.

It all sounds a little silly—but then, so did all the secrecy attached to an innocent fishing trip.

Maybe the President wasn't so worried about German submarines as he was about having rival fishermen find a good trawling spot he discovered for himself.

Better Times On The Farm

"Better marketing for agriculture is not a selfish goal, because it will help the producer and consumer alike," said L. J. Taber, National Grange Master, recently.

The consuming population depends upon the farmer for a constant, never-failing supply of high quality food products. More orderly, efficient marketing means a better and wider variety of foods for millions of homes. This has been thoroughly proven in those areas where agricultural marketing cooperation has been most highly developed.

On top of that, the farmer constitutes the largest single market for the products of our factories. Clothing, machinery, automobiles, insurance policies, building materials, newspapers and magazines—the farmer spends hundreds of millions of dollars for such things each year. Increased farm income thus means more jobs and more opportunities for business and industrial workers.

Better times on the farm means better times everywhere.

Love Can't Be Helped

This is the brief tale of how the state of Illinois got mixed up in a love affair.

A young man worked in the hardware department of a Chicago chain store. He was an energetic worker, paid attention to his business, showed unusual zest and energy—until the store hired a glamorous blond to take over the silks and ribbons counter nearby.

Well, it was love. And anybody knows that a young man in love is no good for anything else. This particular young man was particularly no good for the hardware business, so he was fired.

The state was dragged into the case when the man filed a claim for unemployment compensation. The store contended he was discharged for misconduct and was entitled to no checks. The compensation division, however, held that love is "involuntary"—and the young man got his compensation. Whether he got the blond was none of the state's business.

While everyone else is worrying about war and elections and national budgets, it is comforting to know that at least one governmental division can sit down calmly and think about love.

Japan Relies On U. S.

Exports of scrap iron to Japan during 1939 exceeded 2,000,000 tons—the highest in history—the American Committee for Non-Participation in Japanese Aggression reported after a recent analysis of figures released by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The committee said its studies indicated that the United States furnished 90 per cent of Japan's scrap iron last year, and that Japan had come to rely on this country almost completely to furnish this basic war commodity.

If these figures are accurate, this condition demands further study. The Japanese aggression is as ruthless as that of Russia against Finland. If we are going to help the Finns in their defense, we are scarcely consistent when we throw up a barrier against the Chinese.

Mayor LaGuardia will have to be wary from now on, or someone will elect him President behind his back.

John L. Lewis indicates he is willing to compromise A. F. of L.-C. I. O. differences—as long as everything goes his way.

Mrs. Roosevelt's efforts to locate rooms via telephone for American Youth Congress delegates turned out to be pretty successful. She will be much in demand to conduct telephone campaigns for groups sponsoring theater benefit parties.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—Almost no one knew it, but during the hot clashes between Roosevelt and the National Youth Administration Abbott Simon, mainspring of the Youth Congress, was a house guest in the White House. He lived there while he organized and staged the Congress.

After the stormy sessions were over and the 5,000 youngsters had left, Simon got up in the morning to depart from the White House. Passing his host in the corridor outside his room, Simon said cheerily:

"Good morning, Mr. President!"

FDR stared icily ahead, said nothing.

That incident typifies the gap between the President and the group which once looked upon him as youth's greatest hero.

Unquestionably the country at large, including some of Roosevelt's Republican critics, were with him and against the Youth Congress during their skirmish in Washington. Yet some of the President's close friends, familiar with the real facts, are worried.

Chief worry is the fact that there are 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 unemployed or partially employed youths in the country. Discontented youth is the seed of fascism, and Roosevelt has lost them.

The youth danger has been recognized by such highly respectable agencies as the American Youth Commission, of which Owen D. Young and Henry Harriman, former head of the United States Chamber of Commerce, are directors.

The Commission urges a federal youth program. This also was the chief thesis of the American Youth Congress. They pointed out that while U. S. arms budgets soared, Roosevelt had cut all appropriation for youth—the CCC by $65,000,000 and the National Youth Administration by $15,000,000. Some youth leaders also pointed out that no matter how high Roosevelt upped army-navy budgets, national defense was of little value against fascist seeds of unrest at home.

Few Communists

Fact is that the percentage of communists in the American Youth Congress is relatively negligible. The Congress includes youth organizations from every walk of life—such conservative groups as the YWCA, the Student Christian Movement, even the ultra-conservative Brooklyn Young Republicans; also such radical outfits as the Young Communist League, and various trade unions.

The entire question of Communism was threshed out in advance of the Congress at a private White House meeting called by Mrs. Roosevelt and attended by about thirty liberal congressmen.

Frankest advice given the youth leaders came from Senator Burt Wheeler of Montana, who said:

"If you want to get anywhere on Capitol Hill, you've got to be practical. Get rid of the Communists."

Youth leaders argued, however, that Communists existed in the United States and in the ranks of youth, and that they had a right to be heard if the youth movement was really to be representative. They told Wheeler that the Communists could no more be barred than the name of the Communist Party could be barred from the ballots in a presidential election.

They also argued that to expel the Communists would merely send them underground, make them more menacing; that it was better to let them be heard, especially since they were in a vast minority.

In the end, Senator Wheeler was over-ruled. The Young Communist League was continued as one of the many heterogeneous members of the American Youth Congress.

NOTE—Mrs. Roosevelt, who frequently disagreed with the Congress, still remains the heroine of youth. But not her husband.

Feb. 14, 1940—Feb. 14, 1917

Wonder if there was any significance in the date selected by the Germans to hand us their two latest naval valentines. It was on Feb. 14 that the Germans (1) rejected the Pan American safety zone; (2) warned that U. S. vessels, stopping for inspection at Gibraltar or other Allied ports, thereafter would be subjected to Nazi submarine torpedoes.

If you are superstitious, check back to February 14, 1917, and you will find that on this date Ambassador von Bernstorff sailed from New York. Germany and the United States had severed diplomatic relations as a result of the Kaiser's decision to torpedo U. S. shipping in Allied waters.

Merry Go-Round

Representative Frank Fries of Illinois, militant liberal leader, is privately conferring with AFL and CIO leaders on a peace plan he has formulated. Under it a commissioner, such as baseball czar Kenesaw Mountain Landis, would be selected by both sides to adjudicate differences. If at the end of three years either side was dissatisfied, they could call it off and go their separate ways. . . . Germans may be on short rations in Hitlerland, but on their passage across the U. S. to San Francisco the crew of the scuttled S. S. Columbus lived like royalty. Train crews reported the men dining on turkey, while hundreds of empty beer cans were taken off their cars.

Author of "How To Win Friends And Influence People"

Eighteen years ago a girl living in a small town in North Carolina got an idea. There is nothing remarkable about a girl getting an idea. It happens every day! You get them; I get them. Practically everybody in the world gives birth to new ideas—many of them valuable.

The average person does nothing about them.

But this girl did something about her idea. It was for a new kind of umbrella.

An umbrella that would have the cover stripped off and another cover of a different color put back on the same frame. In other words a woman could match her coat, or her dress, with the color of her umbrella.

The girl who got this idea was a descendant of Patrick Henry. The Patrick Henry you studied about in your history. Her full name: Beulah Louise Henry.

The girl was not an inventor. She never expected to be one. But she worked out an umbrella which she called the "Snap-on" umbrella borrowed money, and hopped the train for New York. There! If that isn't courage I don't know what is. But Patrick Henry had it. So it must run in the family.

She started out to market her idea. Went to an umbrella manufacturer. Showed her sample. Then he showed something else. Lack of interest.

She went to another manufacturer. He said the umbrella would leak. Water would run down the top, along the ferrule. She got a pitcher of water and dashed it on the open umbrella. There was no leak. The man then said that the idea was too novel; it wouldn't be accepted by the public.

She refused to accept defeat. She kept on, going from one firm to another. At last, she found a manufacturer who was willing to astray and his fall." It still keeps him down.

Greedy, grasping, endless asking soaks up everything and leaves only thirst. The loving and self-forgetful reverse all this. In enriching others, they enrich themselves, and such gracious spirits become wells of water welling up into eternal life. This was the secret of Jesus. He waits still where thirst and need go unsatisfied to share it with the seeking.

Prayer: O, Thou Who hast made our thirst a revelation of our possibilities, teach us so to thirst for love, for goodness and truth that in the answer to such longings we may find our true well-being and in our sharing of the spirit of Him. Who came to minister and not to be ministered unto, discover the springs of strength and peace. Amen.

By Dr. Morris Fishbein
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

A survey made in 1938 and 1939, under the auspices of the United States Public Health Service by the American Social Hygiene Association involved study of drug store practices in relation to venereal diseases in 35 cities, located in 26 different states.

The investigator made contact with 1151 drug stores, telling the story of the first symptoms of gonorrhea. If the druggist seemed interested, the investigator then described some of the symptoms of syphilis. The story was always told as if it affected some third person. This was done because a few preliminary trials had shown that druggists sometimes asked the prospective customers to come behind the counter for a personal examination.

Only 7 per cent of the druggists refused to make any attempt to diagnose a disease or sell a remedy. Some of these even took the trouble to warn the customer and to give him a short lecture on the dangers of venereal diseases. In residential areas, 50 per cent of the managers of drug stores offered to diagnose disease and sell remedies, and in slum areas 77 per cent were guilty of such practices.

Thirty different preparations were recommended by druggists—some of them recognized drugs. But in every instance the recognized drugs were powerful preparations capable of doing great harm when taken without proper control of dosage.

Many of the other preparations had been examined from time to time by the Bureau of Investigation of the American Medical Association. Most of them were either watery solutions of boric acid or products containing sandalwood oil. Some of them were preparations of mild antiseptics to be injected.

Actually, of course, there are hundreds of such preparations developed and designed by some unprincipled vendor of nostrums to capitalize on the fears and shame of those who had been infected.

Next: Venereal disease battle brought out in open.

Pedestrian Protection—Child Play Streets Protect Effectively

PLAY STREETS: Where playgrounds are not available, the "play street" provides a considerable measure of protection for children. It should be barricaded to general traffic. New York and other large cities have used this plan effectively for many years. It is a plan that gives children a chance to play, interferes little with traffic since little-used streets are generally selected, and saves many a heart-ache.

Society And Clubs

At a pretty wedding at Temple Beth El at 8 o'clock Tuesday night Miss Ruthie Maxine Chasnoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Chasnoff, 1401 West Third street became the bride of Mr. Arnold B. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Miller, of San Francisco, Calif. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Nathan E. Barasch in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

The Temple was decorated in green and white, southern smilax forming a background, with tall baskets of white gladioli on either side of the altar before which the bridal party stood. Large randlebra, holding thirty two white lighted tapers added to the effectiveness and impressiveness of the scene.

Before the service Abe Rosenthal, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Fred Ross, played "Meditation" from Thais, on the violin, and Mrs. Abe Rosenthal sang "Through The Years," and "One Alone."

As Mrs. Ross played the Lohengrin wedding march the bridegroom, with Dr. Oscar Jacobs, of San Pedro, entered from a rear door and stood at the altar. The bride, with her father, was preceded to the altar by her attendants, her sister, Mrs. Jacobs as matron of honor, Miss Dorothy Cantor and Miss Marian Kanter, bridesmaids. Bruce Jacobs, little son of Dr. and Mrs. Jacobs, wearing a white satin suit carried the ring on a white satin pillow and Louise Nan Chasnoff, a cousin of the bride, wearing a floor-length white net dress, was flower girl.

Entering first was Miss Cantor, who wore pink starched lace, a tiara on her head, and carried an arm bouquet of peach-colored gladioli. Following was Miss Marian Kanter, in peach chiffon, also wearing a tiara and carrying the peach gladioli. Mrs. Jacobs, matron of honor, who immediately preceded the bride, was in alix blue chiffon, jersey top, and turban of matching jersey material, an original Nettie Rosenstein dress and hat. Her accessories were dubonnet, and she carried a large bouquet of dubon-net carnations.

The bride, a brunette, chose for her wedding dress ivory satin and looked lovely. It was made empire style, with long sleeves, and train. Her veil, attached to a halo cap, had a train several yards in length. She carried a white prayer book and her only ornament was a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom.

Attending the bridegroom with Dr. Jacob were Norman Chasnoff, of Houston, Texas, brother of the bride, and Harold Kain, Kansas City, a cousin.

Philip Kain and Abe Silverman were ushers.

After the wedding a reception for a large number of guests was held at Hotel Bothwell, Mr. and Mrs. Chasnoff and members of the wedding party receiving the guests. Mrs. Chasnoff's costume was black crepe, with sequins, made with a train. She wore a corsage of gardenias.

Metcalfe's orchestra played. After the reception the bridal couple left for California, where they plan to spend their honeymoon at Carmel-by-the Sea, before going to San Francisco to reside. The bride's going-away costume was a three-piece tailored suit, black and white, and her accessories were red. With it she wore a corsage of gardenias.

The bride, born and reared in Sedalia, is a graduate of Smith-Cotton high school, attended the University of Southern California at Los Angeles, and graduated from the University of California, at Berkeley. It was there she met Mr. Miller, and the romance, which culminated in their wedding, was begun.

Mr. Miller is a native of California. He attended the University of San Mateo and the University of California at Berkeley, and at present is engaged in the insurance business.

Among the guests from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Nate Mnookin, Mrs. Jack Denebeim, Kansas City, Mrs. Sam Milton, St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wallman, Jefferson City, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gill, Sweet Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Glaze, Kansas City.

A group of friends and relatives met at the home of S. C. Mankin, at Florence, Sunday to assist Mrs. Mankin in celebrating her 57th birthday. Birthdays of Mrs. Clarence Brown and Charley Worthley, which are this month, were also observed.

At noon, lunch which was contributed by guests, was served to the following: George Kurtz and family, Mrs. Clarence Brown, and children, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Mankin and Corine Hibdon, all of Florence, Charles Worthley and family, of Syracuse, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Mewkirk, Tipton and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Oehrke and son, Alonzo, Versailles.

Pig Born With Two Heads

HUGHESVILLE, Feb. 21—Farmer Das McClure was counting heads Tuesday afternoon to determine number of pigs born to a sow on his farm—but there were more heads than bodies—a check revealed that one of the porkers had two heads.

It is normal in every way with the exception of the two heads. McClure, who lives two and one half miles east of here, brought the pig to town where it is being exhibited.

The freak animal appears to have the use of both heads and its actions are normal.

wanted to go to the washroom and I took her.

"At the rest room I loved her and then I raised her up real quick and hit her head as hard as I could on the sink so she wouldn't feel but one blow. After I hit her head I saw a little consciousness left. That seemed funny, so I slammed her on the floor and left. I didn't want to have any consciousness left."

"I cannot explain it or tell the reason I did it. I didn't hate her. I loved her. I loved her. I loved her too much, I guess. I thought she was too good to live. I didn't want that man to be her father. I'd rather see her dead than for the husband I had to be her father."

She told Bisham she and Hardaker had been estranged six months because "I couldn't stand it any longer. I had a nervous breakdown." They have two other children, Dixie, 15 months, and Charles, 5 months.

No Sales Tax On False Teeth

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 21.—(P)—The state can't collect sales tax on false teeth, the supreme court decided today.

A denture manufacturer sought to prohibit State Auditor Forrest Smith from forcing collection of the tax on false teeth on the ground that the price was based more on skilled workmanship than on the actual value of the plates. A lower court found against the company and said the tax should be paid.

In the supreme court it was established, however, that the teeth were usually purchased from the maker by a dentist who in turn gave them to a patient—the ultimate consumer. Consequently, the manufacturer couldn't collect the tax from the dentist.

But should the dentist collect the tax before putting the teeth in the patient's mouth? That question, said the court, "is not before us."

So, no sales tax on store teeth. Dentists have not been requiring patients to pay sales tax on their teeth since the relationship is a "professional service." Prior to today's ruling, however, about $20,000 had been collected on sales from dental laboratories to dentists.

intendant of public education and a new anti-machine legislature. Particular interest was manifested in the attorney generalship. Apparent winner of the job was Eugene Stanley, former district attorney of New Orleans who resigned when Huey's servile legislature passed laws which stripped the district attorney of power. Stanley has promised prosecution of all office holders guilty of venality.

Huey Long Shot In 1935

When Huey was shot and killed in the skyscraper capitol in Baton Rouge in September, 1935, he had built the first complete dictatorship ever set up in the United States.

Unchallenged in Louisiana, he was sweeping to power in the nation and throwing fright into the major political parties with a threat to seek the presidency on his "share-the-wealth" platform, when a bullet ended his life.

When he died, the underlings he had raised to high position became his heirs and, with the unlimited power and no accomplished leader, went on a spending spree.

That precipitated the political scandals of the past eight months in which former Governor Richard W. Leche and many other administration leaders were indicted by federal and state grand juries, striking the first effective blow at the dictatorship.

The second followed in the first primary on January 16 when the Long forces, for the first time, faced a runoff. Many members of the legislature, whose acquiescence made the absolutism possible, lost their jobs. More were dispossessed yesterday.

Perhaps the severest blow to the Long machine was the series of political scandal revelations precipitated by the federal government and which led to the indictment of Dr. James M. Smith, former president of Louisiana State university. Dr. Smith is now serving a state prison term for embezzlement of university funds he lost in the grain market.

Governor Leche's indictment on a charge of mail fraud in connection with his alleged receipt of $67,000 graft in a "hot oil" deal, followed.

Jones, the 41-year-old attorney, was labeled "Sir High Hat Sam-bola Jones" and described himself as "product of a Piney Woods farm" who worked his way through Louisiana State university by waiting on tables.

Among his campaign pledges, aside from "cleaning up" Louisiana are promises of $3 automobile license plates, better farm-to-market roads, regular auditing of the books of state departments, continuation of free lunches for needy school children which Long inaugurated shortly before the primaries.

Class In Selling Thursday Night

Dr. F. D. Kelly who will come to Sedalia Thursday night to conduct salesmanship classes for people engaged in variety store selling, has had a wide experience in this type of work.

Dr. Kelly received his doctor's degree in education at Los Angeles, where he has done much of his practical and educational work. For the past few years he has been a member of the Missouri Valley College faculty, where he has done outstanding work in teaching of retailing and other related work.

While this course was set up for the express benefit of people engaged in variety store selling, and most of his material will be presented along these lines, it is natural to assume that the same principles of selling can be applied to people engaged in department store selling as well.

The class will start at 7:30 in Smith-Cotton high school library, Thursday, February 22nd.

Those wishing to enroll may do so during the meeting.

Majorettes Will Perform At Games

Before the Missouri Military Academy and Smith-Cotton high school basketball game here Saturday night there will be a preliminary game between Smith-Cotton junior high school team and the Smithton junior high school team.

Smithton is bringing its uniformed drum majorettes to perform between the games. The baton twirlers were scheduled to perform at Smithton last Tuesday but the game was called off, thus they will make their first public appearance here.

Their band organization is directed by A. C. Farthing of Sedalia. The twirlers are: Challis Johnson, drum major, Rebecca Case, principle twirler, and Joann Daniels, Mary Lou Jackson, Leona Montgomery, Mary Baldwin, Geraldine Seigel, Gwendolyn Hoehnes, Betty Jo Tharpe, Naoma Retherford, Betty Ann Montgomery.

The Buick was driven by Mrs. Meyers and the Hudson was driven by Maur Smith.

'Art Gallery Mystery' Been Baffling Case

Seek To Connect A 'Newsie' With New York Crime

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(P)—The shambling figure of John (Red) Poggi, 42, a financial district pug-nose newsie, appeared in the police lineup today as detectives sought to connect him with a baffling case of suicide and attempted murder which they have dubbed the "Art Gallery Mystery."

Poggi denied emphatically he had any connection with the case. "I never saw the man before in my life," he declared, referring to the art gallery executive whose skull he was accused of having cracked.

Incongruously fitted into a drama of high finance and priceless art treasures, Poggi shuffled into the New Dorp, Staten Island, police station yesterday after a vain 48-hour search for him and mildly inquired if he was "wanted."

He was arraigned on an affidavit charging suspicion of felonious assault and was held without bail for a hearing Friday.

Originally, on surrendering, he had been booked on a straight assault charge, and police were reluctant to discuss his connection, if any, with the bizarre case.

Identified As Slagger

A few hours later, in a Manhattan hospital, Poggi was identified by Milt B. Logan, former president of the world famous American Art Association-Anderson Galleries, Inc., as the man who slugged him with a foot-long piece of lead pipe, wrapped in adhesive tape, during a wild ride through East Side New York streets last Monday night.

Experts of the police technical research bureau today submitted the pipe-length to chemical tests to determine if stairs on it matched the blood of the bludgeoned art dealer.

With Logan on the ride was his former associate, John T. Geery, secretary-treasurer of the art galleries, who, three hours later after meeting his wife at the Waldorf-Astoria with a bleeding face and battered skull—shot himself to death in the basement of his luxurious home at Garden City, Long Island.

Logan's story, mumbled as he lay in a hospital bed in a critical condition from a fractured skull, was that he met Geery at 5:45 p. m. Monday, near the financial district newstand operated by Poggi, and the Geery introduced the cloth-capped, barrel-chested newsie as a "friend."

It was raining, Logan said, and Poggi offered to drive the two art dealers downtown but demurred at taking the wheel himself, saying he didn't like to drive on slippery streets.

Geery volunteered to drive, while Logan sat beside him. He said that Poggi, a cousin of "Louie the Lump" Poggi, a police character from the old "Kid Dropper" gang days, hunched in the back seat.

"We were driving on the East River drive," Logan told police, "when I was struck from behind—a terrific blow."

"I turned and grabbed the bludgeon, but he hit me again. We struggled and the thing fell out the window. Then the door swung open and I fell out."

Police expressed the theory that Logan's assailant shoved him from the speeding car in the hope he would be struck by another car and his resultant death would appear to be a hit-run accident.

A police radio car found Logan wandering dazedly on East River Drive. Lying nearby was the piece of adhesive-taped lead pipe.

Logan said he first feared his life was in danger when Geery called him to his office last November for a night conference concerning the art business which they took over on a shoe string and which grossed as high as $9,000,000 a year at the time.

It was about this time that he and Geery were indicted for a $65,000 fraud in connection with the sale of Clints' art properties.

"On that night, after the conference, we left to take a subway and Geery suddenly remembered he had forgotten his watch," Logan said.

"He went back to get it, and while I was waiting a man I never saw before pushed me down the subway steps."

There were other minor incidents which led him to suspect someone wanted to kill him, Logan said, and consequently when he accompanied Geery two weeks ago on a trip to buy license plates, he jotted down the number of the plates Geery bought.

It was on this information that police found the plates had been issued in Poggi's name and hunted him for questioning.

Poggi was not asked if he knew Geery, whose 5-page suicide note—apparently started last April 12 and concluded with a penciled scrawl—added another weird angle to the strange case.

In that final paragraph, Geery wrote his wife in part as follows: "This is the limit. I have lived in hell since May through some one else's deception and Plaut knows all. Let him take care of your affairs."

Plaut was identified as Herbert Plaut, Geery's attorney, who told police Geery had accused Logan of getting him into the trouble that resulted in their indictment.

Twin Offensives Against The Finns Were Repulsed

ported wiping out a Russian division, but "a few enemy strong points were captured."

A Russian attempt to send reinforcements to surrounded detachments near Kuhmo, about midway on the Russian-Finnish frontier, was repulsed.

Finnish planes scouted behind the Soviet lines and bombed Russian encampments during a day which saw extensive aerial activity extending into the night.

"Several fierce air battles" were reported both in the war zone and far behind the lines but "in many cases attacks by enemy formations were foiled and formations dispersed."

The Finns charged a passenger train was machine-gunned and in one locality an infants' nursery damaged by bombs. However, only "a couple of civilians" were reported killed in the raids.

Follow Up Air Raids

Two air raid alarms sounded in Helsinki today as Russian warplanes returned to Finland to follow up their far-ranging raids of yesterday in which 10 persons were killed and 20 hurt in attacks on at least 30 communities.

Eight hundred Russian planes were authoritatively estimated to have participated in yesterday's raids, which continued into the early morning.

A Finnish announcement said although many bombs were dropped yesterday damage was relatively slight. It said probably 1,000 bombs fell in the town of Rinimaki and the surrounding area alone.

Today's two alarms in the capital were of ten minutes each, one beginning at 8:30 a. m., the second at 8:50.

The semi-official Finnish news agency denied a Russian army communiqué that the Reds had captured the Finnish coastal fortress of Koivisto, western anchor of the Mannerheim line on the Karelian isthmus.

The agency said Koivisto was still in Finnish hands and intact despite unrelenting Russian attacks.

Thirty Years In Business Here

B. Goldin, Sedalia grocer, is this week observing his thirtieth anniversary in business in Sedalia.

Thirty years ago Mr. Goldin came to Sedalia from St. Joseph, and opened a grocery store at 120 East Main street. He moved later to Broadway and Marshall where he remained many years, then moved to the present location, 206 West Main street.

Mr. Goldin reared his family in Sedalia, believing when he came here it was a good location both for business and in which to live, and he states he is still of the same opinion.

Associated with his in business are his son, Sammy and daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Rossman. Mr. Goldin tells interestingly of his early days in business here, how families came to town in wagons, spent the entire day, brought lists of merchandise they wanted for all purposes, and went home late in the evening, tired, but happy.

Seek Bandit After Slugging CEDAR VALE, Kas., Feb. 21.—(P)—Chautauque county officers sought a bandit who early today robbed the Votz service station here of $25 and slugged Lloyd Scott, 26, night attendant, so severely he is not expected to live.

Scott was found on a desk in the station by Maurice Kennedy and Howard Seively, manager of the station, after Kennedy discovered the station locked when he reported to relieve Scott at dawn.

Scott's head had been battered with terrific force and attached at a Cedar Vale hospital held little hope for his recovery.

Seively said a coat found under Scott's head indicated the attack occurred while Scott was asleep. The station safe had not been tampered with, Seively said.

Scott's car, apparently taken by the assailant, was found abandoned on a ranch five miles west of Cedar Vale.

Scott's wife and their year-old daughter live in Cedar Vale.

Parents of Daughter Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Luce, of Smithton, are parents of a daughter, born at the Bothwell hospital this morning.

Easing Up In Tug-of-War On Rumania Oil

Fears That Nazis Be Favored Are Less Evident

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(P)—The tug-of-war between the Allies and Germany over Rumanian oil for the machines of war has been resolved to the satisfaction of Great Britain and France, an informed source indicated today.

Allied satisfaction was said to spring from assurance that Rumania would not discriminate in favor of Germany in supplying this vital war commodity.

It was reported Rumania told Britain she would allot Germany 1,560,000 tons of oil this year, but that transportation difficulties probably would hamper delivery, just as they prevented delivery of some of the 1,300,000 tons assigned to Germany in 1939.

Viorel Virgil Tilea, Rumanian minister to London handed to Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax yesterday the Rumanian reply to the British expression of concern over the new Rumanian oil control which bosses production, including that of British and French-owned properties.

Fears Being Allayed The note was not made public, but authoritative sources said a mutually satisfactory discussion was held and gave the impression the reply removed fears that Germany might be favored.

Some newspapers jubilantly announced the effect of the Rumanian regulations would be a decrease in the amount of oil sent to Germany, but Reuters news agency, said such interpretations were "a trifle premature" and that "the government's estimate of the new position has not yet been defined."

Establishment of the control board had raised such doubts in London that officials reconsidered the whole question of British and Rumanian trade, giving rise to published assertions that Britain secretly had stopped all exports to Rumania pending a satisfactory settlement.

The reports of a halt in exports to Rumania, however, never were confirmed officially.

Salvo for the British was a recent report from Bucharest that Rumania would export only crude oil and no finished aviation gasoline. British authorities explained this would would put a further strain on German transport.

Since the war started, Rumania has been the pivot of conflicting interests and hence the likeliest theater of action in any extension of the war into the Balkans.

Rumania's ticklish position has been stressed further by concentrations of allied troops in the Near East, by Turkey's own military preparations and a press declaration that Turks themselves would march into the Balkans the moment any other power did so.

"Turkey will enter the war the day a foreign power marches into the Balkans," said the newspaper Yeni Sabash of Istanbul yesterday.

... If Germany attacks the Balkans, she will find us facing her on the side of the allies, because such aggression would directly menace us.

Ban On Aviation Oil BUCHAREST, Feb. 21.—(P)—Pressure by Britain and France was reported authoritatively today to have led to a Rumanian government decree banning the shipment of aviation oil to Germany.

The reported decree is in direct contradiction with an arrangement made with Germany's trade envoy, Dr. Karl Clodius, a few weeks ago by which Rumania agreed to increase her shipments of aviation oil provided that increased export taxes were paid.

(The decree presumably applies only to refined lubricating oils for aircraft.)

The decree was said to be the latest of Rumania's desperate attempts to keep the balance between Germany's demands for fuel and lubricants for her war machine and the allies' counter demands. It was believed to be the result of Britain's recent note asking an explanation of Rumania's petroleum policy toward Germany.

Both Britain and France consistently have pointed out in Bucharest that they might be compelled to reconsider their guarantees of Rumania's independence if King Carol's government favored the Nazis in oil policy.

It also was reported today that Rumanian promises not to favor Germany have resulted in resumption of British shipments of arms and ore to this country. Nearly all exports from the allies to Rumania dwindled to a trickle when Bucharest promised last month to ship 30 per cent of her annual oil production to the reich.

(It was reported in London that Rumania has told Britain her agreement called for shipment of 1-

Buying Hoists Wheat Market

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Another wave of buying swept wheat prices upward more than two cents a bushel today, to within fractions of the peaks reached yesterday. Just before the close, however, about a cent of this gain was lost as a result of profit taking.

Wheat futures closed 1 to 1 1/2 cents higher than yesterday, May 1.05 1/2, July 1.02 1/2, 1.03 1/2; corn unchanged to 1/4 up, May 57 1/2, 57 1/2, July 57 1/2 to 57 1/2; oats 1/4 to 1/2 higher.

Bangert Spearheads Kewpies Attack In Last Half Rally

With a last half attack that netted 19 points the Columbia basketball team defeated the Smith-Cotton Tigers here Tuesday night 38-25 in one of the fastest games played on the local court in several years. It was a conference game.

Behind at the half 15 to 14 the Kewpies, led by Bangert started a "bucket brigade" that put them out in front to stay.

Bangert alone accounted for 15 of the 19 points his team scored in the second half. Bud Michaelis, Sedalia forward lead his team with 10 points.

Winner Of Tilt To Pocket $1,000 In Prize Money

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 21.—(P)—Jolly Jimmy Demaret, impervious to pressure, sallies forth this afternoon to do right by the home folks.

He had done a handsome job of coming through for them by tying Tony Penna, Dayton, Ohio, professional, for the Western Open lead at 293 and was the favorite for the 18 hole playoff.

The winner of today's tilt pockets $1,000; the runner-up $750 of the $5,000 in prize money. Snead won $500.

Snead Wilts In Finish

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 21.—(P)—Tony Penna, jaunty little Italian who didn't know he had a chance, and Jimmy Demaret of Houston, whose friends wouldn't let him forget it, tied for the western open championship Tuesday in a golfing finish seldom equalled for sheer drama.

Penna and Demaret lagged behind Sammy Snead, the West Virginia slammer, starting the final round, but mournful Sam wilted with the title in sight and dropped to third place in a stroke behind.

A nine over par total of 293 gave Penna and Demaret top honors, founded on Penna's last day rounds of 74-73 and Demaret's 76-71 over the par 71 River Oaks course.

First Of Threesome

Penna was the first of the threesome to post his score and settled back to watch the fight between Demaret and Snead.

Members of the gallery of 5,000 told them the situation as they came up to No. 17: Snead could tie for the lead by paring the next holes even if Demaret did likewise.

The West Virginian belted his drive down the 374 yard fairway. It tricked to the edge of the rough on the left and his low second shot caught a trap. He was on in 3 and down in two for a bogey five.

That finished Snead. He took a par on 18 but it wasn't good enough.

Demaret Parred 17

Demaret parred 17 to gain a stroke on Snead and pulled even with Penna.

His second shot on the par 4 No. 18 rolled 20 feet above the hole. He dropped a wise crack to the gallery: "Boy, how I'd like a drink of water now!" and then stepped up to his putt.

It trickled within two feet. But Demaret, 28 year old former caddy now leading for the Vardon trophy, dropped the next one without much delay. It was the last putt of the day and the most important one.

Demaret's finishing round of even par was the finest score of the day and a great tribute to his modesty and cool headedness.

"The gallery did upset my concentration somewhat, although its swell to know they are pulling for you that way," he said.

Penna, who hasn't won a big tournament since he took the 1938 Kansas City open, said he didn't know he had an opportunity to win.

Foxx Picking A Right Hand

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 21.—(P)—Jimmy Foxx, slugging first baseman for the Boston Red Sox, is picking a right-handed hitter to break Babe Ruth's all-time season record of 60 home runs.

His candidates are Hank Greenberg, Detroit slugger, and Rudy York, who has been bobbing around the Tigers' infield and outfield trying to find a permanent spot.

"If Rudy York should make good as a first baseman, and if he doesn't worry too much about his fielding, he may be a contender for the home run title," Foxx declared.

The left-handed fable, Foxx said, is based on records of Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

Ruth, Hack Wilson, Greenberg and Foxx are the only major league players to hit more than 50 home runs in a season. Three of them are right handers.

Foxx, who poled out 58 home runs in 1938 to approach Ruth's record, said Joe DiMaggio, a right hand hitter, should be up among the 50's in a year or so.

Davis To Fight Ambers Friday

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON
NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(P)—In the record books, the young fellow who fights lightweight champion Lou Ambers Friday is listed as Al Davis, a welterweight who hasn't been beaten in 37 bouts in his two years of professional fighting.

Over in Brownsville, a part of Brooklyn, they call him "Bummy" and know him as a very tough lad with a punch and the kind of color a boy picks up around Brooklyn's streets. His real name is Albert Davidoff. The "Bummy" was tagged onto him because his pals claimed he was a bum fighter in his amateur days.

A pleasant looking boy, he is having trouble getting his weight down to the 145 pounds he agreed to make for Ambers. He is a thoroughly unpleasant customer in the ring—the kind of guy who lets the boxers box while he wades in until he finds a chance to knock them stiff. Bummy reminds you of Tony Galento, his greatest weapon, like Tony's, is a paralyzing left hook.

Davis never has tackled one of the big timers before, unless you count Tony Canzoneri, who was far along the downstage when they met. Still he has won 22 of his 37 bouts by knockouts and has been held even only by Jack Sharkey, Jr., who did it twice.

The whole thing seems to add up to a rather busy evening for Ambers, who usually isn't as successful in these non-title bouts as when there's a championship at stake. Lou is favored at 5 to 3, mostly because of his greater speed and experience. But the fight isn't as important to Ambers as to Davis, who sees it as a step toward a title bout with Henry Armstrong and toward the big money.

Cincinnati Reds Get Their Man After Strange Events

CINCINNATI, Feb. 21.—(P)—All the elements of a musical comedy plot entered into it—detectives, mysterious strangers, hotel room conferences and bumping rides over roads—but the National League champion Reds got their man.

"The man" is young Gene Hinrichs, portside rookie late of Henderson, Tex., and one of 91 athletes thrown into free agency several weeks ago by baseball commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis.

How he was snatched from under the eyes of at least two big league clubs—Brooklyn and St. Louis—was told today as general manager Warren C. Giles pawed through a mass of business preparatory to leaving next week for the Reds' spring training camp in Tampa.

Story Runs Like This
The story as pieced together from Giles and others—who should know, runs like this:

Hinrichs came to Cincinnati for conferences, agreed, apparently that "everything's ok," and left the Red's offices, only to be met in the lobby by a uniformed bell-boy from a nearby hotel.

"Come this way," the bell-boy said—and led young Mr. Hinrichs to a suit occupied by none other than Rogers Hornsby. Hornsby, booked at the time to manage Montreal, a Brooklyn farm, apparently carried an offer that interested the Rockwell City, Iowa, youngster.

Hinrich left Cincinnati that afternoon. Next day, Giles received a telegram, sent from Cincinnati's union terminal and "postmarked" an hour before train-time, that Hinrichs had been summoned home because of a "big offer" from another club.

Giles wrote a telegram himself, engaged a detective agency to deliver it aboard a train at Kankakee, Ill., then telephoned to assistant general manager Frank C. Lane who at the time was refereeing a basketball game in Oxford, O., 30 miles north of Cincinnati.

"Drop everything," ordered Giles—and Lane, still wearing his white knickers, boarded a Chicago bound train.

Cardinal "Scout" There
Lane showed up in Rockwell City, talked a hotel clerk into driving him to Hinrichs' farm home—and there found Hinrichs in conversation with a St. Louis Cardinal "scout."

Lane reported he "had to use a lot of salesmanship," but did it so suavely that after Hinrichs chose to sign with the Reds, Branch Rickey's helper actually drove the pair back to Rockwell City, where Lane and his "captive" boarded a Cincinnati train.

But the end was not yet. Lane said at Iowa City, a sports writer boarded the train, introduced himself as Hornsby's proxy and offered Hinrichs $100 to get off the train. Hinrichs refused. P. S. Clyde Sukeforth was named to manage Montreal.

Bishop Gives Address For Advance Rally

Unification Talk Presented In The Epworth Church

(By Church Reporter)
The first of a series of three Methodist Advance rallies for the Sedalia and Pettis County Methodist churches was held in the Epworth church Tuesday night by Bishop John Calvin Broomfield, of St. Louis, resident bishop of the Missouri area. The church auditorium was crowded with delegations from twelve churches. The special music was furnished by the Fifth Street Methodist church choir and by the children's choir of Epworth church.

Bishop Broomfield reviewed the history of Methodist Unification and gave some of the high lights of the Methodist Advance rallies now being held in eighty-two centers across the United States.

History of Unification

Bishop Broomfield gave a very interesting account of the history of unifications of Methodism, from its beginning around a breakfast table, June 18, 1834, in Washington, D. C., when three bishops were talking about unification and one of them said, "Brethren, I do not believe Christ is getting a fair chance in Methodism with its divided condition, and if you will join me, we will try to bring these divisions together." From that date until the Uniting Conference last May in Kansas City, committee's and commissions worked day and night to bring about the union of the three largest branches of Methodism. Now, as a United Methodist church we have a constituency of practically 30 million in about forty seven thousand congregations with forty thousand ministers. We also have 156 colleges, seminaries and universities and over a hundred hospitals and homes for the orphans and aged circling the globe with a annual budget of some 80 million dollars.

With unification before us we have four great programs. First, spiritual advancement. Second, increased support of our benevolence. Third, education and missionaries. Fourth, forward moving program for each local church.

In conclusion, the bishop said, "unless the advance movement reaches the local church and individual hearts we will not really advance. As bishop of this Missouri area with 19 district superintendents, over 700 ministers and 225,000 members in the state of Missouri, there is nothing under the sun we cannot do for the good of the Kingdom, if we set our hearts to it. Will you join me as the chosen leader for Missouri, in telling God, as far as you are concerned, you are going to, along, join hands with all others and advance in God's direction."

Second Rally Tonight

The second Advance rally will be held in the Fifth Street Methodist church tonight at 7:30 with the First Methodist choir furnishing the special music. This morning Bishop Broomfield with the Rev. L. M. Starkey drove to Marshall, where he will hold an Advance rally in the Marshall Methodist church, for the Saline and Cooper county Methodist churches. Thursday morning a similar rally will be held in the Higginsville Methodist church for the Lafayette County Methodist Churches. The final rally in Sedalia will be held Thursday evening in the First Methodist church.

Lime Is Help To Lespedeza

Farmer observations and experimental work of the Missouri College of Agriculture show conclusively that lespedeza will respond as well to proper soil treatment as other legumes, says George E. Smith of the Missouri College of Agriculture.

Not only has lime and fertilizer increased the yield of forage, but where both of these treatments have been used the protein production per acre has been doubled. Results of numerous feeding tests would indicate that this greater percentage of protein contained in the hay from treated soil would give 30 per cent to 50 per cent more gain per pound of feed consumed by the animal, over the untreated. This would make the high protein from the fertilized ground feed worth more than twice as much per ton as that from the land receiving no treatment.

The composition of hay can be greatly affected by the fertility or nutrient content of the soil, and hays that may appear the same may have vastly different capacities to put gins on livestock. It is essential, therefore, that to make lespedeza give the most profitable return that it be given sufficient lime and phosphorus to make satisfactory growth. Unless such nutrients are available the hay will be of poor quality and be inefficient in fattening livestock.

Although lespedeza is used to a large extent on large areas where soil treatments are not so practical, it is also grown on much land and under intensive systems where very profitable returns could be obtained from using the same fundamental treatments as are practical with such legumes as red or sweet clover.
